PurFlo® Breathable Mattress

Designed to provide your baby with the cleanest, safest, healthiest sleeping environment possible

The PurFlo® Mattress unique hollow core and fully breathable mesh SleepSurface™ comfortably supports your baby or child better than a conventional mattress.

The PurFlo® story began in 1994 when new parents Gail and Paul Whale became concerned about news reports linking fire retardant chemicals in foam baby mattresses with Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Like all parents they wanted only the best for their baby, so Gail and Paul Whale decided to take matters into their own hands and designed their own foam free, fully breathable, fully washable mattress.

Before bringing it to the market, the PurFlo® mattress then underwent extensive clinical laboratory research studies under the direction of Professor Peter Fleming CBE, Professor of Infant Health and Developmental Physiology at Bristol University and an acknowledged world leader in Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

This research found that the PurFlo® mattress unique breathable mesh surface supports and conforms better to a baby's shape than a conventional mattress, eliminates the risk of CO² pooling on the mattress surface and being rebreathed by your baby and helps to regulate body temperature more effectively than a conventional mattress when used with a sleeping bag.

Fully washable at 60°C eliminating all known bacteria including MRSA, fungi and dust mites (HDM) that build up in a conventional mattress. The PurFlo® mattress provides a genuine dust-mite free environment for babies helping to prevent the harmful build-up of allergens which are known to aggravate childhood allergies such as asthma and eczema.

Since its launch the PurFlo® cot mattress has been the choice of thousands of parents in the UK

Features of the PurFlo® Mattress:

- Fully breathable
- Fully machine washable at 60°C
- Reduces the risk of overheating
- Anti-allergenic
- Prevents pooling & rebreathing of CO²
- Disassembles and packs compactly for travel or storage
- Comfortable & supportive
